Death Stroke to Be Dealt to Kaiser's Empire, Says French Cabinet Officer.

Determined That Not Another Ship Shall Reach Enemy's Coast, Victor Augagneur, Minister of Marine, Declares to the World.

Power of Submarines and Zeppelins in Battle Scouted—Predicts Fleet Will Force Dardanelles and Fall of Constantinople Will Quickly Follow.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT (Copyright, 1915, by the United Press. Copy-righted in Great Britain.)

PARIS, March 2. Germany's doom has been sounded; the Allies have answered inhuman warfare with a death-stroke, Victor Augagneur, the French Minister of Marine, declared in an interview today.

"Not another ship shall reach Germany, if we can help it—and I think we can," said the head of France's navy. "We have observed from the start all the rules of civilized warfare. Germany has broken all—putting herself on the plane of the savage. Well, we will starve her out."

The interview took place in his office in the ministry overlooking the beautiful Place de la Concorde. The French Minister smiled the grim smile of confidence, as if he had no doubt whatever of the ability of the French and English navies to meet the task before them.

VON TIRPITZ'S THREAT

"But Von Tirpitz says that Germany will starve out England," it was suggested.

"Just a bluff," said Augagneur, scornfully. "Germany is utterly unable to make good her threat. People say that Germany has secretly built many large submarines."

"I know better. I know within two or three exactly how many she has, and neither England nor France is in the least way frightened by them. A ship now and then. This is inevitable. But in the ultimate end what good will this do her? The outcome of the war will not be changed an iota."

"The German threat to starve out England by torpedoing merchantmen is of the same brand as the threats to destroy London and Paris with Zeppelins. What if Zeppelins actually visited Paris or London? They might kill a hundred, 200, or possibly 300 non-combatants—but what of it? It would be merely an achievement—a record of savagery, but the final result would in no way be affected."

"What could the Zeppelins do if they flew over an English or French fleet?" I asked.

"I don't even consider that," said the Minister, with a little gesticulation to show what he considered the utter inconsequence of such a menace. "They go to pieces without outside aid if they hear. With their tremendous bulk exposed to fire short work would be made of them."

"What is your Mediterranean fleet doing?" I asked.

"Waiting for the enemy to pick up enough courage to show itself," was the laughing reply. "Since the beginning of the war our ships have been promading up and down the Mediterranean, sometimes challenging the enemy at his very door, but each time he sees us coming he retreats."

THE WEATHER

FAIR

There is very little opportunity to complain these days about the weather. It is not only reasonable, but we are beginning to believe that March is a very much maligned month. It's blustery, yes; but not uncomfortably so, and the snappy wind is good for the circulation. Our hope is that things will be just as pleasant for the remaining days of the month. It is hard to tell. Predicting about the weather is a better business than betting on the reply you used to get when as a kid, you asked what was for dessert along about soup.

Forecast For Philadelphia and vicinity—Fair and continued cold tonight and Thursday; moderate westerly winds. For details, see page 2.

WOMAN SENTENCES BOY

Mrs. Van Hise, Probation Officer, Commits Two to Reformatory.

The first commitment by a woman in the State of New Jersey was made yesterday, when Mrs. Van Hise, an assistant Probation Officer of Camden County, sent a boy to the State Reformatory as a penalty for breaking their parole.

Action was taken under the recent ruling of Judge Stribling, who decided that it would be more expeditious to sentence minor offenders to the reformatory and then suspend sentence on condition that the boys report every week to the probation officer. He decreed that the probation officer might carry the sentence into effect without further court proceedings at any time within the limit of the sentence that the offenders failed to report.

INNER DARDANELLES FORTS AGAIN SHELLED BY ALLIED WARSHIPS

Six British and Three French Craft Bombard Turkish Strongholds, Troops Force Landing and Drive Out Moslems.

LONDON, March 3. Six British and three French warships are bombarding the inner Turkish forts on the Dardanelles, it is reported from Salonika. Troops landed from the fleet at Kum Kale (Kale Sultani) have driven off the Turkish garrison. The telegraph station on Besika Island has been burned.

A British battleship, supported by two smaller warships, shelled a Turkish fort on the Gulf of Saros for several hours. The Turks replied effectively with their heavy guns and defeated the attempt to send a landing party ashore to cut the line of communication between the European forts and Constantinople. The warships have resumed the attempt.

The Anglo-French fleet has encountered strong opposition from the guns of Fort Kilit-Bay on the European side of the Dardanelles.

The Admiralty today did not credit a report that an Austrian fleet might be on the Dardanelles to attack the allied fleet in the region which the British moved out of the strait and attacked from the front.

The Austrian fleet was reported to consist of six submarines and several torpedo boats, but has not been sighted. In addition to the 10,000 Turkish troops being massed for the defense of Constantinople all the available heavy guns have been rushed to the remaining forts. It is expected that some of the inch guns were taken from the cruiser Goeben for use against the allied fleet. Guns have also been moved southward from the forts around Adrianople and into the Tchaushan region.

The lull in the bombardment, caused by storms, has been utilized by the Turks, who are working feverishly at strengthening their forts that remain intact.

Yeni-Chir has been set on fire by shells and destroyed.

It is said that the losses of the British and French in killed and wounded are about 2,000. While the force of the fire to which the Allied fleet was subjected.

FIRE SWEEPS SAUSAGE LINKS

One-eighth of Mile Destroyed, But Bloaters Are Saved.

Nearly one-eighth of a mile of sausage and several platoons of smelts were roasted beyond recognition in a fire today which swept the firehouse of 12th South street. The proprietor, on being awakened by the smoke, got his wife and nine children out of the house by means of a ladder. The fire was caused by the arrival of the firemen, Isenberg saved much of his stock, including a barrel of Yorkshire pudding and a number of Yarmouth hickies.

He started out with some of the sausage, but was unable to manage it. When the firemen arrived with their axes they virtually played golf with the links, so the sausage was done. The blaze was caused, according to the police, by mice chewing matches. Isenberg said that he had a dog which he bought last night, but it is possible that the dog drew the line at mice for technical reasons. The blaze caused a loss of $300.

PORTER ATTACKS COUNCILS

Director Says City Fathers Refuse to Support Department.

With the exception of funds actually needed for living expenses, Director of Public Safety Porter, in a communication today to Mayor Blankenship, asserts that he has been using his salary to make up deficiencies in the fire and police departments caused by the failure of Councils to appropriate enough money. Director Porter, in the communication, calls attention to the fact that the fireboat Stuart has had to be docked for repairs and that a large percentage of the city's fire-fighting apparatus is out of commission owing to the lack of funds for repairs.

Director Porter says that although Councils were asked for $20,000 for the departments, $2500 was all that was appropriated. With this money it was impossible to open bids for lumber, hardware, tools and other supplies needed.

The director also says that Councils, when asked for an appropriation for supplies for the police surgeons, instead set aside money for the purchase of waste-burners, lubricating oil, packages and stable and veterinary supplies. Owing to this, there have been no medical supplies for the police surgeons, and Dr. Porter says that the failure of Councils to purchase quantities of these materials at his own expense.

BISHOP RHINELANDER ACCUSED OF UNFAIRLY DISMISSING MINISTER

Congregation of the Rev. Lloyd D. Rhodes Sends Petition Requesting That He Be Retained in His Present Work.

Charge of Tampering With Mail Is Made by Acolyte in Church of the Annunciation, Involving Bishop and Several Others.

An Episcopal Church controversy with manifold issues, involving Bishop Rhineland, of the Diocese of Pennsylvania; the parish of St. Andrew's Church at Yardley, Pa., and the Rev. Lloyd Dexter Rhodes, minister in charge, has arisen through the interception of a letter of censure addressed to an acolyte in the Church of the Annunciation, 12th and Diamond streets.

Mr. Rhodes has been notified that he will be free from duty April 1, although his appointment does not expire until May 31, and his congregation is in open rebellion against the Rev. Dr. W. C. Emhardt, rector of St. Luke's Church, at Newtown, who is chairman of St. Andrew's vestry and the Rev. Mr. Rhodes' ecclesiastical superior. Funds are being raised to make the parish independent.

Charges against the Bishop and others, alleging tampering with his mail, it is understood, will be pressed by John Henry Howard, of 276 North 31st street, the acolyte. He has placed the matter in the hands of his attorney.

Bishop Rhineland declined to make a statement. "I have nothing whatever to say," was his comment today.

St. Andrew's parish is aroused over the dismissal of its minister by the Bishop, who, it is said, asked that the young clergyman sever his association with Howard and accused him of disloyalty when he refused to accede to the Bishop's wishes. The Bishop is said to have requested him to discontinue friendship with the Rev. Dr. R. K. Verkes, rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, 31st street and Woodland, with whom he is linked with Howard as being antagonistic to the work of the diocese in Philadelphia. The young minister refused both requests.

His congregation addressed a petition bearing 70 names to the Bishop last week, asking him to rescind the order of dismissal. Coincidentally with the petition is an effort by the parish to take over the appointment of its own minister by raising the required sum to make it an independent parish. About $250, the necessary sum has been pledged.

This action is said not to be an attempt to override the Bishop's wishes, but to enable Mr. Rhodes to make his home at Yardley, instead of at the mission house at Newtown, five miles distant, where he now lives.

A stormy meeting was held by the congregation of St. Andrew's on the night of February 20, when the petition was drawn up. Hearing of the meeting, Doctor Emhardt hastened to Yardley and attempted to dissuade the members from signing the paper. In spite of his efforts the petition was drafted and signed by every person present except himself and Jesse E. Harper, treasurer of the vestry.

Resides the petition, copies of protest have been sent to the Bishop.

"We do not intend to dictate the Bishop's course, but we feel that he has been misinformed," said Charles M. Eaton, a vestryman, who called the protest. Doctor Emhardt has evidently given the Bishop the impression that they are antagonistic to him, while as a matter of fact he is just doing his best to carry out his wishes. We feel sure, however, that when he learns the facts and realizes what evil effects the removal of the minister in our midst will do, he will see the matter in our light."

PRaises MR. RHODES

The whole affair is the result of efforts by Doctor Emhardt to put a stigma on Mr. Rhodes, who incurred Doctor Emhardt's ill-will by giving the Bishop certain facts some time ago.

Mr. Rhodes is a splendid young fellow and is popular in the parish. Since he came here a year ago the church has been prospering.

MRS. DONALDSON GETS CHILD 8 HOURS ONLY EACH MONTH

Mother Can See Girl on Alternate Fridays From 1 to 5 P. M., Says Court—Grandmother Is Named Custodian.

The dispute over the custody of 7-year-old Dorothy Donaldson, which caused Mrs. Evelyn Hunter Donaldson, former wife of Keith Donaldson, to spend several hours in a Central police station last November, was determined by Judge Brown in the Municipal Court today, and a decree filed placing the child in the care of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Donaldson, her grandmother, of 263 Chestnut street.

Judge Brown, however, further ordered that the mother shall have custody of Dorothy on alternate Fridays from 1 to 5 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. That there will be no danger of a physical clash such as happened last week with Miss Maud Healy, sister of her former mother-in-law, a French nurse, the court has provided that Mrs. Jane D. Ripplin, probation officer, will escort the child to and from the homes of the grandmother and mother.

While young Mrs. Donaldson gained a point in seeing the child at intervals, something which she asserted had been denied her, she failed in her efforts to have the court decide that the French nurse who took part in the physical encounter in the Chestnut street home should be dismissed. It was the mother's contention that the nurse, Fannie Blanc, was wearing the child's love away from the mother. On this point Judge Brown said that it was a matter to be decided later.

Some of the parties were in court when Judge Brown handed down his decree. A short time later, Dorothy's mother, still visibly grieved, entered the courtroom. She was shown a copy of the court order and gave it close study for a couple of minutes.

"I am satisfied with the order so far as seeing and having charge of Dorothy two afternoons each month is concerned," Mrs. Donaldson told the court's probation officer. "However, I feel that I must insist upon the discharge of the nurse and will press this matter."

"LITTLE MOTHER" TRIES TO END LIFE

Dorothy Farr became so tired trying to fill the duties of a housekeeper, following the death of her mother, that she took poison and is now dangerously ill in a hospital. She is shown here with her two charges, Ralph, a brother, 8 years old, and Marie, a sister, 4 years old.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM CITY HALL STAIRWAY

Youth Had Once Before Attempted Suicide in the Same Manner There.

A youth 15 years of age threw himself over the sixth floor railing of the hanging circular stairway at the northeast corner of City Hall shortly before 11 o'clock this morning and was instantly killed.

His falling body narrowly missed striking two men from the Sheriff's office and other pedestrians entering and leaving the building. The suicide was the third in City Hall since the building was erected.

An application blank from the United States Employment Bureau, in South 24th street, was found in his clothing. From this the police believe he was Frank Snyder, of 117 North Marshall street.

Questions on the blank filled in by Snyder indicated that he was an iron molder and that he had been out of work for some time. City Hall Guard Reibel said he recognized Snyder as a youth who tried to throw himself from the sixth floor in the northwest corner of City Hall several months ago. Reibel happened to be near at that time and stopped him just in time.

News of the suicide spread quickly through City Hall, and a curious crowd jammed the first-floor corridors at the corner. Guards finally dispersed them. The body was taken first to Hahnemann Hospital, where the youth was pronounced dead, and then to the morgue.

AIRCRAFT GUIDE RETREAT

LONDON, March 3.—A description of the efficient work of two Russian aeroplanes is transmitted in a dispatch from Warsaw. These aeroplanes, it is related, saved two Russian regiments of the 24th Division during the recent Russian retreat in East Prussia. Hovering over the heads of the soldiers, they guided them in their retreat through the enemy's lines in safety, and by frequent trips to and from the Russian base they kept the column supplied with ammunition.

REJECTION OF CHRIST IS UNPARDONABLE SIN, CRIES "BILLY" SUNDAY

Refusal to Accept Jesus Despite Appeals and Warnings Most Fatal Error of All, Says Evangelist in Famous Sermon.

Thousands of persons were unable to gain admittance to the "Billy" Sunday tabernacle this afternoon, when the evangelist preached his famous sermon on "The Unpardonable Sin." By 9 o'clock the morning service many women were waiting. They had "stacked" the breakfast dishes in many cases and came into the city from the suburbs early, in order to be certain to get seats. By noon the great temple was half filled, and by 1 o'clock there was hardly a chance for any one to get inside. Half an hour before Sunday started to speak the policemen and ushers were kept busy holding back the crowds trying to rush in through the different doors.

This sermon, which is one of the evangelist's most stirring ones, will probably attract the greatest number of men and women to the tabernacle this far. "Billy" will repeat it tonight and tomorrow night, when the meeting is to be for men only. "Ma" Sunday yesterday made a special request that all who come should wear a special emblem because of the great crowds that would clamor for admittance tonight and tomorrow night.

GIRL, TIRED OF CARE, TRIES TO END LIFE

Wearry Acting Mother for Little Ones, 12-year-old Child Swallows Poison.

One of the most pathetic cases ever recorded in this city is now occupying the attention of the physicians at St. Joseph's Hospital, where Dorothy Farr is hovering between life and death after trying to kill herself at the tender age of 12 by swallowing poison. The girl had been caring for a younger brother and sister since her mother died some time ago, and the duties of housekeeper at her home, 1820 North Ewing street, proved so wearing that she decided to end her life.

The little girl is the youngest who has ever attempted suicide in this city, according to the police. She was very nervous and uneasy while attending class in the Kelly school, 27th street and Columbus road, yesterday. When her teacher asked her whether she felt ill, she murmured that she had swallowed poison at her home and wanted to die. Her appearance bore out her statement and C. L. Boyer, principal of the school, rushed for a doctor.

Investigation showed that the little girl had taken poison tablets from a bottle in the bathroom at her home. The doctors are not sure whether she will recover. She told them that she had been acting as a "little mother" for her 8-year-old brother, Ralph, and 4-year-old sister, Marie. This, she said, made her "awful tired."

Dorothy's father, Otto Farr, who is a watchman employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, visited her today at the hospital. He almost collapsed when he reached his daughter's cot.

"Why did you want to die?" asked "I'm ashamed of myself now," replied the girl in a choking voice, "but I was so unhappy and sad. I never had a home like some of the other children in our neighborhood and I also thought I wasn't good enough to be a mother."

Nurses and internes who heard the child's story turned away. The father had been up all night guarding the Walnut street pier of the Pennsylvania Railroad and was tired. He placed his hand on his daughter's forehead, and, leaning over, whispered something into her ear. He then walked away. As he reached the door leading to the corridor he called out:

"Daddy will be back in a few hours."

SENATE ADOPTS NAVAL APPROPRIATION REPORT

Bill Provides Two Battleships and 18 Submarines.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Senate today adopted the conference report on the naval appropriation bill. The measure carries $145,000,000 and provides a program of two battleships, two seacoast submarines and 18 coast defense submarines. It abolishes the "plucking board" and the Taylor efficiency system.

Senate amendments providing for a Government armor plate plant and a Government projectile factory were eliminated by the conferees.

FIRE AT "OAKMONT"

Untenanted House Owned by Mrs. J. R. Connell Damaged.

Fire believed to have been started by incendiaries, damaged an untenanted house belonging to Mrs. Joseph Richards Connell, of Oakmont, this morning. The building is a three-story frame structure at Eagle and Copperstown roads, Oakmont. Efficient work by fire companies from Ardmore, Lansburg and Oakmont kept the amount of damage down to $2000.

A house of Mrs. Connell's estate burned about one month ago. Mrs. Connell is the mother of Sergeant Standish Maguire, who married a Japanese girl while in Tokio and last year brought her to the Oakmont home.

TAYLOR EQUIPS TRANSIT ARMY FOR THE FIGHT

In Formal Statement He Furnishes Citizens With Projectiles for Councils.

Director Reviews Every Phase of Transit Situation and Riddles Arguments of Foes of His Plan—Appeals to Independent Voters.

Defends Delivery Loop—Meeting of Mayor's Cabinet Today—Speculation as to Organization's Intentions—Tax Bugabo Usset by Comptroller Walton.

Director Taylor, of the Department of City Transit, today furnished the army of citizens fighting for real rapid transit in every ward of the city with ammunition for the battle before Councils tomorrow. In a formal statement, reviewing every phase of the transit situation and riddling the arguments of the Organization against the subway delivery loop, the Director appealed to the independent citizens of Philadelphia to compel their Councilmen to respond to their demands by the force of aroused public opinion.

With the subtle trickery of the "fake" ordinance, which was exposed by John G. Johnson, the Director calls on all Philadelphians interested in real rapid transit to demand from their representatives in Council the passage of a legal ordinance providing for a special election for the $6,000,000 loan measure. Sounding the fighting slogan, "On to Councils," he appeals for a public demonstration which will sweep away every obstruction and clear the road for an actual start on the comprehensive plan for real rapid transit.

THE TAYLOR STATEMENT

The statement of Director Taylor follows in full:

"With relation to the ordinance reported out by the Finance Committee, purporting to call a special election to authorize an increase in the city's indebtedness in the sum of $6,000,000, based on the assessed valuation of taxable property for the construction of a subway railway in Broad street, from League Island to Olney avenue, with necessary branch lines northeast and northwest from Broad street, and the construction of an elevated railway from Front and Arch streets to Rhawn street; if this ordinance should be passed in its present form it would be useless and ineffective legislation.

"John G. Johnson, in speaking of it, says: 'The proposed ordinance is legally defective, and I am inclined to think, particularly inasmuch as it signifies that the indebtedness of the city should be increased to a designated sum based on the assessed valuation of taxable personal property in said city. Of course, it is determined whether a loan is or is not excessive, it is necessary to consider the assessed valuation of the property; but this must be a valuation, not of any particular kind of property, but of the whole.'

"It prescribes that the money can only be used for two purposes, namely, the construction of a subway in Broad street, from League Island to Olney avenue, with the necessary branch lines northeast and northwest from Broad street, and the construction of an elevated railway from Front and Arch streets to Rhawn street. 'The Broad street subway will involve a large investment in order to make it practicable commercially, it must be given every advantage of location and design. Furthermore, on account of its cost, it should be designed to provide a direct and inviting service to as many people as possible.'

"Of the entire street railway traffic of the city of Philadelphia, only 10 per cent is to and from the central delivery or business district, bounded by Arch street, Walnut street and the two rivers. The traffic centers of this district, as disclosed by the traffic survey, is near 13th and Market streets.

"If, therefore, the Broad street subway is constructed, it will be a waste of money."

YOUTH "DARED" TO DRINK QUART OF WHISKY, DIES

Bottle Was Found by His Friends in the Street.

An acceptance of a "dare" to drink a quart of whisky resulted in the death of William Pfeil, 17 years old, of 129 Roseberry street in a patrol wagon while being rushed to St. Agnes' Hospital early today. Physicians at the hospital said that the young man's death was due to uremia resulting from the drinking of a quart of some alcoholic beverage.

According to the police of the Fourth street and Snyder avenue station, Pfeil and five other young men were walking past the corner of Broad street and Moyamensing avenue late last night when one of the youths found a quart bottle of whiskey on a door step.

John Coffey, 324 South Clarion street, dared Pfeil to drink the whiskey according to the police. Pfeil picked the bottle to his lips and drank the whole quart while the crowd looked on. Shortly afterward he became violently ill and had to be assisted to his home. Dr. Morris Schwartz, 202 Ritter street, was called to the house, and, realizing that the young man was in a serious condition, he called the patrol wagon and had him removed to the hospital.
